Stories from Abroad

Study Abroad Fall Cancelled

The University made the difficult decision to cancel Fall 2020 study abroad programs. "We understand how disheartening and disappointing this is to you, but please know that we are committed to your international education," Michael Pippenger, vice president and associate provost for internationalization and Hong Zhu, senior director of global education, said in an email to Fall 2020 students on June 8.

NDI Study Abroad will be providing students with alternatives including the possibility to study in Spring 2021, Summer 2021, and Fall 2021. Students with questions are encouraged to visit the NDI FAQ website as well as reach out to Study Abroad Program Directors.

Meet Grace Dean

Grace Dean was part of the London Spring 2020 study abroad program and now she reflects what her experience has taught her.

"Interning at an MP office was a surreal way to engage more deeply in British daily life. In addition to becoming friends with British interns, I was lucky to learn about UK policy in action & how Parliament's debates compare to those on Capitol Hill. I had the chance to represent my MP at think tank meetings, attend committee hearings, and even watch Prime Minister Questions! My MP has a background in clinical psychology, so it was fascinating to watch her advocate for mental health in the House of Commons chamber. Being surrounded by centuries of English history within the walls of Parliament was truly an unforgettable opportunity."

Study Abroad Photo Contest

Notre Dame International (NDI) has opened a special edition photo contest for the spring 2020 cohort of study abroad students only! Eligible students were emailed earlier this week and have until Friday, July 17, 2020 to submit photos for consideration. Students are encouraged to submit photos of any memorable experiences or moments from their truncated semester abroad.
